DECK/STEW

Growing up in Puerto Rico, my strong bond with the beach and nature has always shaped my perspective and prepared me for life's unpredictable challenges.

In my final year of high school, Hurricane Maria devastated my beloved island, leaving behind a trail of flooded homes, uprooted trees, blocked roads, and months without water and electricity. During those months, I volunteered in nearby schools to clear debris and organized events for my community, my favorite being a 'Trunk-or-Treat' for my school to replace the risk of trick-or-treating in the dark.

This experience taught me to appreciate even the simplest and most fundamental aspects of life.
